Parents Are Grateful for Villanova

Gigi Gehres, parent of Stewart '11 and Zachary '14 works as a Registered Nurse for a home care center and is also President of the Parent Guild.

Gigi first learned of Villanova from a coworker and knew it would be the perfect school for her children. She was very impressed with the academics, values and tight-knit family atmosphere. She knew that her children would have a great education, but more importantly would also be taught Catholic values.

Gigi loves being part of the Villanova community as Parent Guild President and enjoys “helping to connect parents with staff.”

Villanova Prep is a great place that “teaches what is really important beyond just academics and understands that by connecting the staff with parents, the students can get the most of their experience,” she says.

She is especially interested in helping all the new parents to take part in this amazing time of their child’s life. “Whatever you’re interested in doing, whatever you can do, we’ll find something rewarding for you!”

Sue Horgan is mother to Michelle '08, Shannon '12, a bank vice president, and the chair of the Villanova Prep Board of Directors. She is proud to be steward of this “beautiful 130 acre campus, with wonderful facilities,” she says.

Getting involved on the board was a good way to support the school.

“I strongly support the school because I know what a difference a Villanova education makes,” she says.

Michelle is on the Loyola Marymount swim team and Shannon is on track to attend the university of her choice.

Of Villanova Prep, she says, “It’s a great educational environment--where kids are not only encouraged academically but morally, spiritually and athletically.”
